Questions for City Councilmembers and City Staff regarding Sustainable groundwater management and Curtailment

Sustainable groundwater management:

1. What is the maximum sustainable production for the CCASRCD?
2. How does that compare to the planned production for the eastern, western, and ERF well fields?
3. What are the most relevant potential unacceptable economic, environmental, and social consequences of the maximum sustainable production for the CCASRCD and at what yields are they likely to occur?
4. If the City's eastern, western, and ERF well fields were only operated on an emergency basis for times of drought and in a maintenance mode during non-emergency times, how would that affect the sustainability of those groundwater resources?
5. What is the maximum sustainable production for the San Patricio GCD?
6. How does that compare to the planned production for the Evangeline Laguna well fields?
7. What are the most relevant potential unacceptable economic, environmental, and social consequences of the maximum sustainable production for the San Patricio GCD and at what yields are they likely to occur?
8. If the City's Evangeline Laguna well fields were only operated on an emergency basis for times of drought and in a maintenance mode during non-emergency times, how would that affect the sustainability of those groundwater resources?

Curtailment:

1. How will curtailment be implemented for:
 - a. Residential customers,
 - b. Commercial customers,
 - c. Large volume customers, and
 - d. Wholesale customers?
2. Who decides when curtailment will begin?
3. How long will it take for curtailment to be implemented once that decision has been made?
4. What counts as a violation of curtailment?
5. How will curtailment be enforced?
6. What is the criteria for ending curtailment?
7. Who decides when curtailment will end?

ideally through a stakeholder process. Potential unacceptable consequences include: high amounts of subsidence, reduced spring flow, reduction in surface water flows, saline water encroachment, fault activation, increased potential for contamination by pollution sources, and impacts to shallow wells.

Sustainable yield (Q_{SY}) is the amount of groundwater that can be produced to achieve groundwater sustainability.

Resources on Sustainable Groundwater Management

Public hearing on groundwater management and aquifer sustainability, The Texas House Committee on Natural Resources, February 10, 2026.

<https://house.texas.gov/videos/22642>

- Wade Oliver, 02:34:40
 - Discusses how the GMA's are essentially split into two groups. The western GMA's primarily cover aquifers that are unconfined while the eastern GMA's cover aquifers that are confined and unconfined. Wade explains how a lot of the productivity from the eastern aquifers is due to the pressure in the confined aquifer, stating that the most productive areas tend to be where there is confining pressure.

- Dr. Robert Mace, 5:02:30
 - Discusses how most aquifers in Texas are being pumped at 90% of their maximum sustainable production. Defines maximum sustainable production (Q_{SP}) as the amount of water that can be taken from an aquifer every year for the next 300+ years. Explains how GCD's and GMA's are not required to assess the maximum sustainable production for their districts.

Five Gallons in a Ten Gallon Hat: Groundwater Sustainability in Texas, Robert Mace, 2021

<https://watershedassociation.org/library/five-gallons-in-a-ten-gallon-hat-groundwater-sustainability-in-texas/>

Defines groundwater sustainability as the "development and use of ground water in a manner that can be maintained for an indefinite time without causing unacceptable environmental, economic, or social consequences." Explains that groundwater sustainability has to be defined by a decisionmaker,

Public Comment for City Council 02/17/2026

Hi Councilmembers,

First, I want to state my appreciation for all of the hard work you and City staff are putting into meeting the current and future water needs of the Coastal Bend. We are in an extraordinary situation right now, big decisions are being made fast, and I wanted to bring up a couple of points for your consideration. The intent of my comment is to ensure 1.) that all water users are being treated fairly and 2.) that all resources are being managed as efficiently as possible (within reason).

1. What is the near term and long term maximum sustainable yield for the Nueces River Groundwater Wells?

Key decisions are being made regarding the Nueces River Groundwater Well projects. The City is planning on withdrawing huge amounts of water from a relatively small area of land. Before more decisions are made on the project, I think it is important to have a definitive statement from the City's hydrogeologist, Steve Young, made available to Councilmembers and the public about the short term and long term production capabilities of these well fields.

Not only is this important for guiding future decisionmaking surrounding the projects but also for informing the City about the potential impacts to residents who rely on residential wells. Last week, it was clear that Councilmembers lacked a definitive statement from the City's hydrogeologist and instead had to rely on City staff's interpretations of previous statements, which may or may not be 100% accurate.

2. How will CCW implement curtailment and will Council be ready to implement it earlier than expected if necessary?

Curtailment is one of the City's most important tools for ensuring water needs will be met as the drought continues. It was briefly discussed last week during a Water Conservation Advisory Committee meeting. My takeaway from the discussion was that the City needs to clearly articulate how it will carry out curtailment, preferably as a presentation to Council at an upcoming meeting.

The City is spending millions of dollars to meet current demands, which is appropriate for the situation because of how severe it is. However, there is a possibility that curtailment will need to happen sooner than currently planned due to 1.) underestimates of sedimentation in the western reservoirs, 2.) drought in the eastern reservoirs, or 3.) production issues with the Nueces River groundwater well fields. Therefore, I believe it is important for the City to demonstrate that it is ready to carry out curtailment and ready to implement it effectively by presenting how it will do so to the public. Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,
Jason Hale

Residents deserve clean, safe, & affordable water, but the IH experimental desal plant poses serious risks. It harms the Hillcrest community & threatens our fishing industry & ecosystem—evidence from the Brownsville pilot plant shows ship channels are poor locations. Offshore intake & discharge, like the Barney Davis site, are essential. We cannot invest nearly $1B in a project that may not work. A transparent, comprehensive study of IH & outer areas, including long-term brine “dead zone” impacts, is needed. Cost is also critical. Beyond the high $$ for only 34mgd, what will residents pay per 1,000 gallons? Will CC Desal Partners proposal offer that guaranteed cost? Is there room for expansion? will this meet long-term growth needs? We face a water crisis & need a proven solution that protects the bay. Please halt the vote until far-field modeling for CC Bay, Nueces Bay, & the ship channel is complete. Do not rush or commit major funds without full infor & environmental safeguards.

I'm asking the Council to move beyond repeating "no desal" and instead look at what you can do right now using your full City Council authority to protect our water supply.

The issue is current water demand. At this moment, some of the largest heavy water users have no restrictions, while residents and communities are being asked to conserve.

I'm asking you to place immediate restrictions on high-volume water users who are currently exempt, so we can protect what we have before making irreversible decisions.

I will be sending you a draft moratorium for review. I also encourage you to look at the recent action taken by the Hays County Judge, who used existing authority to protect water resources.

You have the same authority here. I'm asking you to use it to protect our water now.

Thank you.

The City needs a proven, cost effective, evidence based Water Conservation Plan.

Please request City staff put together a list of the top 30 water conservation ideas that other cities are currently doing. Examples- giving away low flow shower heads, rebates for low flow toilets, giving away dual-flush toilet kits, getting rid of turf, etc... Then have the City paid consultant, find or do the actual math. Have them rank the list from least expensive to most expensive, cost per thousand gallons saved over the life of the idea. Example only below (I haven't researched or done the math).

Low flow showerhead- $.10 per thousand gallons
Toilet rebate- $.20 per thousand gallons
Water wise house calls- $1.00 per thousand gallons

You get the idea. Once this has been completed. All conservation ideas that are less expensive than the cheapest new water source (approximately $7 per thousand, or whatever is the agreed number) should be put into the conservation plan. I am sure that y'all would all agree that the fastest new water source (conservation) and also the specific conservation ideas that will raise the rates the least (cheapest per thousand gallons) are the ones that should be included in the plan, funded and implemented first.

This would be an evidence-based conservation plan. As long as the evidence is referenced for each conservation idea, people can get behind it. Thank you for your consideration.
