Comment

My name is Janet Newcomb, and I'm furious. As a Corpus Christi resident, I've slashed usage to under 3,000 gallons/month—short showers, instant leak fixes, no outdoor watering. I demolished my pool to save every drop in this brutal drought. Real sacrifice.

Emergency cuts loom by late 2026. Residents have conserved hard, but big industry guzzles ~60% of our water—more than all homes combined—while dodging surcharges via a voluntary "Drought Exemption Fee."

This fee funds millions for drought-proof projects that benefit us all. Scrapping it guts revenue and hikes rates on low-users who've already bled dry. Unfair.

Voluntary exemptions + weak enforcement let industry skate while residents suffer.

Don't kill the fee—fix it now. Mandate it for heavy users or tie exemptions to strict, verifiable conservation targets. Force proportional cuts—no loopholes.

We're conserving to the bone; industry gets a free pass. Demand equity: real, shared sacrifice for our water's survival—before it's gone.

Comment

Please vote to eliminate the drought surcharge exemption fee.
All rate payers must protect our water supply, we shouldn't have created exemptions that weaken conservation from large volume users that allows them to buy their way out.
When drought conditions worsen, the burden of conservation shifts onto families, neighborhoods & small businesses while major water users remain insulated. We must see change on those who use the most H2O - industry, their flat fee undermines this goal.
Public trust erodes when residents see one set of rules for households & another for industry, its an unfair system.
Long-term water security depends on reducing demand, not just funding supply projects. Revenue from the exemption fee does not replace conservation.
The most affordable & reliable water source we have is reduced demand. We can't build our way out of drought if we weaken policies that encourage responsible use.
In a drought, water policy should reward conservation -not the ability to pay.

Please appoint 3 new NON CITY employee members to the CCASRCD board. Jason Hale, John Weber & Brad Bartilson all have great knowledge of the importance of this board. These 3 individuals have been great active community members & would advance this board for the greater good of us Corpus Christi residents & are sure to get this board back on track. As for Weber, non resident for the time being, can attend all meetings by Webex since from what I understand is that there are no residency reqmts for appointment to the board. I'm confident that Weber, Hale & Bartilson will surely add valuable feedback in working for storage solutions in times of drought. I strongly ask that you do not reappoint any of the City employees. I trust that you have seen that previously this board was controlled by City employees & not much was done to develop & protect municipal aquifer storage areas by the City of CC.

Public Comment for City Council 01/27/2025

1. CCASRCD Appointment

The mission of the CCASRCD to protect and manage groundwater resources is extremely important to me. I think one of the lessons we learned from the current drought is how critical groundwater and emergency supplies are to our water portfolio. It would be an honor to be able to serve on the board and to help the board achieve its mission.

Groundwater Leasing Ordinance, 1987 to 2001

Did you know that in 1987 the City adopted an ordinance requiring the City manager to acquire and to maintain a water well leasing program to produce 60 million gallons per day? In 2001, the ordinance was abandoned due to costs, partially attributable to the large amount of acreage needed to satisfy upstream GCD district regulations, and also because Mary Rhodes Phase 1 had just gone online, providing large volumes of water that exceeded current demands. As time went on, those volumes of water were met by new demands, leaving the area prone to drought again.

Emergency Supplies / Drought Resiliency

One takeaway from this is that new non-emergency supplies, like Mary Rhodes Phase I, eventually get spoken for and are not a reliable long term solution to drought. I believe that you need flexible supplies and/or flexible demands in order to get through a drought and I think the CCASRCD will be extremely important in ensuring long-term drought resiliency.

Sustainable Management of Groundwater Resources

Our streamflows depend on sustainable groundwater management in upstream GCDs. They've diminished over time and will continue to do so unless it is addressed. Therefore, it is important that the CCASRCD sustainably manages its resources in order to encourage the same from upstream GCDs, whose management affects our surface water resources.

I looked through the board applicants, I think there are a lot of good candidates, most of them are much more qualified than me. However, as a board member, I will do everything I can to ensure our groundwater resources are protected and sustainably managed. Thank you for your consideration.

2. Drought Surcharge Exemption Fee

On the flip side of flexible supplies are flexible demands. Drought surcharges provide a financial incentive to reduce water use when supplies are low. Additionally, they can provide a source of revenue that offsets the loss in water sales due to conservation. However, it's hard to tell if the Drought Exemption Fee program is working in the best interest of the public.

Water Consumption Graphs By Customer Class, 2022 to 2025

Recently, water use data for 2025 was published on the City's website which provides insight to the effectiveness of Stage 3 drought restrictions. Conveniently, the whole year of 2025 was in Stage 3 drought restrictions which makes comparisons to non-drought years easy. Despite a target reduction of 30% for Stage 3, only a reduction of 5% was achieved when comparing 2023's water use to 2025's water use (Table 1). Most of the reductions came from Commercial and Residential users, using 12% to 16% less water in 2025 compared to 2023.

Table 1: Water use data from 2023 and 2025.

	Water Use (MGD)		Difference (MGD)	Difference (%)
	2023	2025
Large Volume ¹	32.67	32.19	-0.48	-1.5%
Wholesale Raw ²	28.99	30.62	1.63	5.6%
Wholesale Treated ³	15.93	14.49	-1.44	-9.0%
Commercial	16.39	14.33	-2.05	-12.5%
Residential	15.97	13.29	-2.68	-16.8%
Total	109.96	104.93	-5.02	-4.6% ⁴

1. Sales to Corpus Christi LVU's
2. Around half goes to LVU's outside of Corpus Christi
3. Around 12.5 MGD goes to GCGV
4. Target reduction for Stage 3 is 30%

Flexibility of Demands & Tradeoffs of Different Drought Policies

One takeaway from this is that Large Volume Users have some of the least flexible demands out of all of the user groups. I understand that LVU water use reductions may be undesirable and I can get on board with that as long as our drought policies are crafted to be in the public's best interest. However, I don't think the benefit of exemption fees over surcharges has been reasonably demonstrated.

Case Studies: Reservoir Time & Surcharge Collections

For example, if LVU's had reduced their demands by 15% in 2025, how many days would have been added to our water emergency timeline? Probably at least a month or two, right?. Alternatively, what would the revenue from surcharges look like if they were in effect in 2025 and large users didn't conserve? By my calculations, it would be over $100 million, which would take over 15 years to get from exemption fees.

Who receives the benefits from the Drought Exemption fees?

If the City is collecting $7 million a year, and that goes to new projects, it essentially lowers the debt service of new projects which ultimately lowers the water rate to customers. That's good and all, but if LVU's make up 60% of the water users, then in essence, they are receiving 60% of the benefit. So what may seem like a $7 million dollar yearly benefit to non-LVU users, actually ends up being closer to a $3 million dollar yearly benefit to non-LVU users. I guess the question here is, at what point do the exemption fees become a better deal for residents over surcharges? If the City can't answer this, then they don't know which scenario is best.

No Guarantee of Participation

Additionally, if a large amount of new supplies are built and drought / surcharges are less of a concern, then there is no guarantee that LVU's will continue to participate in the program since it may be more cost effective to opt-out. Without a guarantee of future participation, the benefits of the exemption program become less reliable, which is concerning since the exemption fee program requires a long timeline in order to become a net benefit. Given the dire water situation we are in, and the lack of flexibility in demands from the region's largest users, I think it's worth asking whether or not the exemption fee program is in the public's best interest.

3. Far Field Advisory Committee Update

Last week was the far field advisory committee's first meeting. It went great, the input from everyone was awesome, and I wanted to thank you and the City Manager for creating the committee. It was a profound experience for me because I could finally feel us getting closer to understanding the true viability of the Inner Harbor project. I think it's an important endeavour because we need to make sure that our water dollars are going to projects that are operationally reliable and environmentally safe, which is something that has yet to be verifiably demonstrated for the Inner Harbor.

Lack of Clarity on How Results Will Inform Decision Making

One important point that came up during the meeting was related to the results and how they will impact decisions made on moving forward with the Inner Harbor project. Given that members are dedicating their time, effort, and expertise into this endeavour, I think the City should let them know how the results will inform decision making, that way members can budget their time and energy accordingly. I value their input, I think it's critical to the committee's success, however I don't want them to feel misled or like the City isn't valuing their contributions. All of which can be resolved by the City stating whether or not the results will inform its decision to move forward with the Inner Harbor project and if the City will wait to move forward on the project until the results are in.

Funding the completion of GHD's modeling

Another important point that was brought up was the possibility of funding the completion of GHD's modeling from last year. I think it could be very valuable and timesaving, however I am concerned that if we are unable to verify its accuracy, it wouldn't make a positive contribution to the modeling efforts. Given GHD's reluctance to share the finer details of their model, much less any of the results except for a couple of slides, I'm highly concerned that this may be the case. So if you do consider it, please make sure, with absolute certainty, that we will be able to have the setup, inputs, and results validated before you decide to fund the completion of the study. Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,
Jason Hale

Dear Mayor and Council members,
Please read the 5 attachments. It is time for this Board to accomplish the mission it was created for. It has a lot of money in the bank that can be put to good use to provide for the City in times of drought. This can only happen with a complete change of members on the Board. Appointing 3 non-City staff will ensure the Board's future effectiveness.
Thank you for your consideration.
Best regards,
John

The State created the CCASRCD. It was created in 2005 by the 79th State Legislature. It was signed into law by Governor Rick Perry.

Quoting the law:

"The district is created to develop and protect municipal aquifer storage areas created by the City of Corpus Christi."

This board first met on Nov. 21, 2006 (let me know if you want to see the meeting minutes), almost 20 years ago. It is my opinion, that it hasn't done what it was created to do.

As of Nov. 21, 2025 their account balance was $746,181. They have the money to do what they were created to do.

"Rule 2.2 Board Structure and Officers

The District Board of Directors is composed of 5 members initially elected to staggered 2- and 4-year terms. All directors are appointed by the Corpus Christi City Council. The Board shall elect officers annually and the officers must be confirmed by the City Council. If a vacancy occurs on the Board, then the Board may appoint a Director to serve the remainder of the term.

The District's Board of Directors is comprised of a Chairman, Vice Chairman, Secretary, General Manager, and Member(s). The Board of Directors holds regular meetings at City Hall located at 1201 Leopard Street, Corpus Christi, Texas on a quarterly basis, unless otherwise posted. All meetings of the District's Board of Directors are public meetings noticed and held in accordance with all public meeting requirements. The District Board of Directors meetings are posted in each county along with other items of interest by the District."

Per Aimee Alcorn-Reed, Assistant City Attorney, as noted in the May 31, 2023 meeting minutes, "this is not a City board."

Per Lisa Aguilar, the legal representative, as noted in the Sept. 10, 2025 meeting minutes, "It was noted that we are a stand-alone entity and , therefore, will have our own information separate from the City."

Please read the 4 additional attachments.

The item packet refers to the following.

According to Resolution 033786 signed on Oct. 21st, 2025, "The Council will appoint two non-City staff members to the board of directors of the Corpus Christi Aquifer Storage and Recovery Conservation District upon expiration of the terms of the next two directors."

This means what it says, the Council will appoint two non-City staff members. So, the Council must appoint at least two non-City staff members. The Resolution doesn't restrict the number of non-City staff members. After the Council appoints two non-City staff members, the Council can appoint a third non-city staff member. The board has been controlled by City staff members for almost 20 years and it hasn't accomplished the mission it was created to do. Because of the Board's failure to accomplish its mission and how poorly it has been managed since 2018 (according to the own Board's minutes), it is imperative that three non-City staff members are appointed at this time.
