She also said she would be hosting a fundraiser for the library called "Literacy is a Drag" and said the board is taking too long to raise funds.
- Robyn Valentine provided the following written public comment at 8:45 6/3/2025
I'm writing this comment in response to the fascist takeover of our local libraries. Throughout my life I've heard the argument, "we have to protect the children," a phrase commonly used by conservatives to scare people in-line when their backwards logic fails to convince them of their position. The data continues to prove time and time again that queer people are not the ones preying on children. As a matter of fact, the groups that actively harm children, conservatives want to further integrate them into children's lives such as into their schools and classrooms. People who care about children aren't trying to take books out of their hands, they're trying to get them to read more. They care about children not going hungry, about them not falling into poverty, all things that the "protect the children" groups never talk about. Defunding libraries is not about kids, it's about manipulation, depriving communities of their access to free education. By keeping them ignorant it makes them easier to control. The only thing you've shown us through your actions are who the real predators are
