Yes for OSO plant fix-But add stuff to stop the stinky smells!

Agenda Item Number

Comment

The Oso Water Wastewater Plant change Order No. 4 fixes are needed. But the plant can still smell gross sometimes (like rotten eggs from poop water treatment). To make the air around it fresher for people nearby—like at Texas A&M, the golf course, or houses—I hope you add these easy fixes now or soon:

- Put special filters (like big air purifiers: biofilters or carbon ones) on vents to catch and clean stinky gases before they escape.
 - Cover more open tanks so smells don't float out, then send the trapped air through those filters.
 - Watch oxygen levels better in the water and recycle some good bacteria to stop bad smells from starting.
 - Add sensors that check for bad smells (like H₂S gas) ALL the time so workers can fix it fast.
- These tricks are normal at modern plants, don't cost a ton long-term, stop complaints. Thanks

Yes for repairing/resurfacing the park trail at Hans & Pat Suter Wildlife Refuge.

Agenda Item Number

Comment

Good news for Corpus Christi! Vote YES to fixing up the trail at Hans & Pat Suter Wildlife Refuge (that awesome bird-watching park by Oso Bay with trails, boardwalks, and nature vibes).

A contract for about $149,000 to a local company to resurface the existing trail will basically make the path smoother, safer, and way nicer to use (no more bumpy or cracked spots!). It's part of bigger upgrades there, like making it easier for everyone (including people with wheelchairs or strollers) to enjoy.

This means better rides, walks, and bird-spotting adventures soon. The refuge is already a chill spot to explore wildlife – now it'll be even better!

Good News- vote yes to reconstruct Alameda (Airline to Everhart)

Agenda Item Number

Comment

Right now, Alameda is in rough shape—it's bumpy, cracked, and honestly, I avoid driving or biking on it because it's not safe or fun. That's why I'm super excited about this project! This is great news for our neighborhood in District 2! It'll make the street smoother, safer, and way better for driving, walking, biking, or just getting places without stressing about potholes. It's funded from bonds and city funds we already have, so let's get this done! Please vote YES to approve this reconstruction—it's a big win for safer roads and our community. Thank you Vote Yes for grant application for cybersecurity -deadline is Thursday!

Agenda Item Number

Comment

Hackers are hitting Texas cities hard—disrupting bill pay, shutting down emergency alerts in multiple counties, and costing millions to fix. These attacks can delay help, expose info, and mess up daily life for ALL of us.

That's why I strongly support this resolution: Vote YES to let our IT team apply for $419,000 in state cybersecurity grants (with only a $180,000 city match if we win). It funds better backups, real-time threat detection, and two extra experts to protect our networks, emergency systems, utilities, online payments, and more.

No cost to apply, huge safety payoff. Deadline is February 12—please approve today and keep our city cyber-safe!

What is the immediate plan? Conservation, curtailment, or pray for a hurricane?

About 3 years ago, a Council member said at a public event that the City would never take water conservation seriously. The Council member said it was because that would reduce water revenue. It seems the Council member was correct. Over the years I have given many presentations to the Council regarding proven water conservation plans. I have spoken to multiple employees of the water department and shared the information with them as well. So far, the City water department has failed to take water conservation seriously.

The City can put forward a thoughtful, aggressive conservation plan based on other proven plans from other Cities. This needs to happen first. Then the City Council must fully fund it. Then it must be implemented immediately.

It is not rocket science. Just copy another city's proven plan. See link below and attached graphic.

<https://cityofpetaluma.org/water-conservation/>

"To conserve water and reduce current and future demands for potable water, the City provides recycled water to irrigate urban parks, schools, and public and private landscapes that historically used drinking water for irrigation. Additionally, the City has a robust water conservation program to help our residents and commercial customers conserve water. Click here to learn more.

As shown in this graph, the population (red line) has increased over time while citywide water use has decreased. Improved indoor and outdoor water use efficiency has allowed us to serve more people with less water than we have historically. To ensure this is the case for many years to come, and under varying water supply conditions, the City is working to expand our local water supplies which you will learn about below."

Besides just focusing on residential use, other rate classes need to participate in conservation. I spoke with an engineer at Chemours and he assured me they and other large industrial users can reduce cooling water use by 50%. Other industrial managers have confirmed the reason they don't implement conservation is because the water they purchase is too cheap to make the case to invest in the equipment needed to reduce use.

In addition, as I have presented in the past, smart rate design is also a tool to conserve water. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SUL98pjDUVA> Tiered rates reduce water consumption. They must be implemented for all rate classes, to be effective. This can be implemented later this year when the new water rates are approved by the Council.

If the City water department chooses to not implement an aggressive conservation plan immediately, curtailment will be necessary. The sooner curtailment starts, the longer the City will have access to water.

Does the City choose conservation, curtailment, or pray for a hurricane? It is up to the Council to give guidance to the City Manager on which direction you wish to take.

As always, have a nice day.
