that is already built, so there is no need to overpay for desalination; the City has been trying to find a water supply for our region since 2001; the number one priorities for the City are an uninterrupted water supply, streets and wastewater; the importance of this project for the future of the City; if the City borrows $11,000,000 today, the impact on the water rate is zero; the debt service is built into the current rate; the debt service for the $11,000,000 is $100,000; and a Council Member stated this project is an $11,000,000 risk for the City without approved permits.

Your "mission is to make Corpus Christi one of the most livable communities in America. To create a vibrant, progressive, clean city that rejoices in its diversity. To keep our citizens safe and secure, and provide an abundance of economic development opportunities while paying special attention to our unique environment." Everything about Item 19 and your proposed desalination project for Corpus Christi Bay goes against that mission. Please vote NO on Item 19 and hold a series of townhalls where the debate can be flushed out; where all questions are addressed; and the harms, risks, and costs of such a proposed project are fully exposed. In closing, I would like to thank you for the recent townhall meetings held for the upcoming budget, but I'd also like to point out that if you can do that for the budget, you can do it for the proposed desal project.

What is the hurry on the permit for a Desalination Plant? Why does the city want to proceed if the City has not determined, we the taxpayers want to fund this. There are multiple plans for these plants from industry, if the Heavy Industry wants this, why are they not building it themselves? Polymers is available, formally M& G. When something smells fishy it usually is. I ask that you vote this down and have town hall meetings on this, or why not have had town hall meetings prior to this? Too many questions and no satisfactory answers. Your approach has been behind closed doors. Never a good thing. Government demands we have an open participation. We have multi-billion in street repairs and infrastructure was one estimate. We should prioritize that.

Dear Mayor McComb & City Council Members:

Port Industries of Corpus Christi members appreciate the City's many efforts to ensure that our region has a strong, drought resistant, and reliable supply of water, and offer congratulations on the City's recent selection for SWIFT financing from the Texas Water Development Board.

As regional water provider, you know better than anyone that an ample supply of clean, fresh water is crucial to everyone in the Coastal Bend; and that the City needs a diverse portfolio of reliable, affordable, and sustainable water sources to support high quality of life and continued economic vitality.

Since 2014, the City of Corpus Christi, the San Patricio Municipal Water District, Port Industries members, the Port of Corpus Christi, and the Corpus Christi Regional Economic Development Corporation have been working collaboratively on that issue with the goal of achieving a drought-proof water source for the area.

During that period, the City has examined, in a continuous and ongoing fashion, all alternatives from conservation and reuse to groundwater and desalination; we agree with this comprehensive and rigorous approach. We also agree with the decision to secure financing for a desalination option at this time.

Other sources may bring additional diversity to our water supply, but the work that has been done since 2014 has shown that desalination is feasible, affordable and sustainable which leads us to support the City's strategy of continuing forward with preparations for desalination facilities to meet the currently known demands for water in our area. Even in good times, drought is never very far away. We must be ready.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide input into the process. Port Industries appreciates the City Council's continuing commitment to developing a strong, drought resistant, and sustainable water supply system.

Sincerely,

Rick Ritter

On behalf of the United Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce, I am pleased to offer our support of the City's plans for a seawater desalination plant in the Port of Corpus Christi's Inner Harbor Ship Channel and a future plant near the La Quinta Channel in San Patricio County. Our compliments to you and your staff for the intense diligence and planning you have done over more than seven years to move a new water supply project forward. Reliable and sustainable water supply is the key to economic and business growth in the Coastal Bend. The City's long term plan to meet the area's public water needs ensures that the City's total water supply capacity will continue to meet the water demands of residents, businesses and industry in our region. The seawater desalination approach adds a drought resistant water source to our overall supply while minimizing any financial or environmental effects. It is great to see forward-thinking leadership from the City of Corpus Christi on this issue.

Vote NO on Item 19 -- funding desal -- on tomorrow's agenda. Putting the first facility in the inner harbor will set us on a path to catastrophic harm to our bays and our pocketbooks.

The city should hold a series of public hearings where the debate can be flushed out; where all questions are addressed; and the harms, risks, and costs are fully exposed. That's transparency. That's leadership.

North Beach is a tourism destination that relies on clean bay water and a healthy ecosystem to continue to show our visitors the best of Corpus Christi. We can't let the Port's growth hurt our city's #2 industry, tourism, by polluting the water with brine, hurting our marine life by changing the salinity and bay temperatures in the inner harbor. That water flows right into the water we are all swimming in here on North Beach.

We will all be watching your vote tomorrow to help us decide how to vote on the ballot this November.

Mayor and City Council Members,

Congratulations on the Inner Harbor Desalination facility being selected to receive State Water Implementation Fund of Texas (SWIFT) funding. The effort given by the City of Corpus Christi to develop this regional drought-proof water supply shows the keen foresight and tenacity the City has demonstrated over the years to ensure adequate water supplies for the region. We would like to encourage the City to continue the progress moving forward and to accept the SWIFT loan from the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB).

The TWDB through its methodical process has prioritized this beneficial project and has deemed it worthy to receive a subsidized low-interest loan that will benefit the entire region. We appreciate the leadership in water demonstrated by the Texas Water Development Board. Also, our thanks to Texas Legislature, and in particular our San Patricio County members, Senator Zaffirini and Representative J. M. Lozano, for making such programs available.

Again, the City should be congratulated for the efforts it has taken over the past seven years to methodically and purposefully move forward achieving the goal of a drought-proof water source. The dedication demonstrated by the Council and City staff to advance the desalination proposal has been remarkable. It has been a pleasure to work with the City and we will continue to support the City in its effort to develop a drought-proof public water source for the region.

Sincerely,

Brian G. Williams, P.E.

First and foremost I want to thank the City Council for NOT attempting to de-fund our Police Dept of Corpus Christi Texas. We need to make sure our neighborhoods and Schools and place of employment are being secured. Being an employee of one of the biggest food chains in Texas I can say I appreciate the presence of our Law enforcement Officers.

As for kids getting back to school, I most certainly hope this will happen soon, as I have a brother & sister inlaw both that are First Responders and have 4 children still at home and still in college, Highschool and elementary. So they have to have 4 laptops or PC's They are also FullTime employees of the City / Hospital. I can tell you that I know it has been very stressful on them, and on top of that putting their lives in danger every day. Maybe instead of worrying whether or not people are complying with "mask wearing" we should focus on getting our city back to work. 100% People need to get back to work and kids in school.

Hi, I was wondering if my comment from last week was received. I haven't submitted a written comment before and don't know if a lack of reply is typical or if it might have been overlooked. thanks.

I want to thank the Corpus Christi public libraries for their phenomenal job during the pandemic. As my family's other activities stopped, our use of the library has increased. It's been one of the biggest bright spots of our spring and summer in isolation. Every library staff member I've dealt with has been unfailingly positive and friendly. Many have offered unsolicited extra advice or suggestions to further improve the experience. Each week we borrow books, a puzzle, and the library also gives us a take-home craft. That package from the library is one of the highlights of the week for my 3-year-old twins. They have started reading their first words this summer, and some of that credit goes to the easy reading books we borrow from the library. This is also their main source of education as we are keeping them home from preschool for now. I've appreciated the adult books and the movies as well, especially as I spend more time exercising on my spin bike rather than in public. All of this is helping us stay home and entertained. Thanks for continuing to make these resources available despite the challenges.

Re: Buccaneer Days Coronation Pageant

Did you receive a July 23, 2020 email from me addressing the issue of diversity/inclusiveness re the Coronation Pageant that is affiliated with Buc Days? In July 2019 when I presented this question to the editor of CCCT she suggested submitting it directly to the org (las Donas). She recently expressed an interest in their answer when I told her I followed her advice.

If I do not receive an acknowledgement/ reply from you or members of the City Council re this email or the July 23 I suppose it will be necessary to submit a letter via USPS. BTW, it is not uncommon to experience delays and/or difficulty with my emails bec the unusual email address is often times flagged as spam/junk mail.

Considering the critical issues facing the City re covid-19 and the needs of its residents I can certainly understand a delay in responding. The City and County has done a stellar job at executing its responsibilities that includes advising and guiding the public during the pandemic. My Dad who loved this City would have been proud of the City today, both public and private even though his role as gadfly and watchdog would probably not be well received by all. He was one of those "old guys" from generations past who sought to disclose greed, corruption and unfair treatment of others. The attachments are intended for those not familiar with his role in the community.

Tom Hunt

Often controversial, he was a man of his word.

The death Friday of Tom Hunt took from the scene a man who was endlessly energetic, and sometimes combative, in seeking to make a difference in his community.

Hunt, a former president of the Taxpayers Association, was often at odds with the Caller-Times — but not always. It bears remembering that when he ran for county treasurer in 1986 on a pledge to do away with that antiquated and unneeded office, the Editorial Board endorsed him. In 1987, the office was duly abolished — and Hunt, a man of his word, became one of those rare politicians actually to put himself out of work.

He also served on the City Council, where he functioned as a kind of in-house gadfly; and in 1994, as a Republican, he came within a whisker of defeating Democrat Richard Borchard for the office of Nueces County judge.

Hunt, a retired Air Force officer and former insurance agency owner, was sincere in his convictions, and, as in his brief stint as county treasurer, he was a man of his word. His was a long and impressive record of service to country and community.

Honest and dedicated, Tom Hunt was often community's conscience

Tom J. E. Hunt died Thursday, November 7, 1996, at the age of 76. He was well known and respected in Corpus Christi as an honest, strong, person dedicated to the cause of good government and became one of the community's outspoken "watchdogs."

If he felt there was a wrong doing he would make every effort to undo the wrong, even if the cause he embarked on appeared to be impossible. That tenacity came to the forefront when he decided that Nueces County did not need a County Treasurer. He managed to be elected to the post in 1986, then went about seeing that the job was abolished. In 1989 he was elected to the City Council.

Tom J. E. Hunt died Thursday, November 7, 1996, at the age of 76. He was well known and respected in Corpus Christi as an honest, strong, person dedicated to the cause of good government and became one of the community's outspoken "watchdogs."

If he felt there was a wrong doing he would make every effort to undo the wrong, even if the cause he embarked on appeared to be impossible. That tenacity came to the forefront when he decided that Nueces County did not need a County Treasurer. He managed to be elected to the post in 1986, then went about seeing that the job was abolished. In 1989 he was elected to the City Council.

Tom J. E. Hunt was born in Kansas City, Missouri in 1920. Shortly thereafter his parents moved to Birmingham, Alabama where he spent most of his childhood and young adult life. It was there that he met his wife Edwina. They were married nearly 54 years.

In 1939 Tom enlisted in the military and in World War II served as a bombardier on a B-17. On June 26, 1943 his plane was shot down by enemy fire in northern France. The French Underground hid Tom and another crew member in their homes, barns and wine cellars, as they made their way across central France, southern France and with the help of the Basque sheep herders, across the Pyrenees Mountains where they were met by a British plane and flown safely back to England. These war experiences played a significant role throughout his adult life, and undoubtedly had a part in molding his strong, dedicated personality. He did not forget the dedication and sacrifice of the French people.

After the war, Tom and his family were transferred to Chateauroux, France. At his first opportunity he traveled throughout the northern part of France in search of the people who helped him during the war. With Edwina as the interpreter, they traveled from village to village looking for familiar sites. He knocked on doors in search of his rescuers, and finally rounded up the people who played a key role in saving his life. During his 3 1/2 year tour of duty in France, Tom and his family spent most of their holidays with their special friends in Doudeville, France.

Tom was very disturbed when he discovered that one of his rescuers was still under suspicion by many of the other villagers. This French underground worker purposely wanted the German Nazis to think he was friendly to the Germans and perhaps even a traitor. This allowed him to maintain a strong front during the process of hiding American, British and Canadian flyers. Tom was outraged, as he knew that this particular Frenchman was in fact a high level French underground supporter. He was determined to "make it right."

He arranged for military officers to come to this tiny village (Doudeville) and make known to everyone that the Frenchman saved many lives at the expense and safety of his own family. American bands from all over Europe came to the tiny village to salute Tom's friend and everyone in the village attended the ceremony in the cinema building in the center of town.

After his harrowing escape, Tom became a pilot and retired as a Lt. Colonel in the USAF. Following his retirement he operated an insurance agency in Corpus Christi from 1962 to 1985. In addition to his public service, he was a past president of the Corpus Christi Taxpayers Association, past president of the Six Points Lions Club, a member of the Corpus Christi Navy League, Military Order of the World Wars, OPUS and the Retired Officers Association. He also served as a volunteer driver for cancer patients.

Tom Hunt Sr. recalled as principled

Late tax reformer 'gave his all for the community'

Friends and former political opponents expressed shock over Tom Hunt's death, describing the familiar figure as a principled man who always stood firm by his beliefs.

A family member said that it was not widely known in the community that Hunt had been ill for several weeks.

"It's a shame. This is a great loss for the community," said Hunt's friend J.E. O'Brien.

O'Brien, spokesman for the Corpus Christi Taxpayers Association, reminisced about what he considers to be Hunt's finest moment — successfully crusading for the city's 68-cent property tax cap in 1979. Hunt later became president of the association.

"I met Tom in 1979, when he joined the association," O'Brien said. "Since that time, he gave his all to this community. He gave everything he had to help the residents of this city."

Before the tax movement, Hunt had run unsuccessfully for a seat on the City Council in 1967 on the Popular Party ticket.

The next time Hunt became

Tom Hunt Sr. ran for City Council in 1967, but area property tax issues brought him into politics in the late 1970s.

involved in city politics was in 1979, when the tax appraisal on his three-bedroom townhouse on the Southside skyrocketed 149 percent.

It was at that moment that the tax activist in Hunt emerged.

He joined the taxpayers association and initiated a tax reform measure to cap the city tax rate at 68 cents and limit annual property valuation increases to 6 percent.

After voters approved the measure, the city sued every city taxpayer, challenging the constitutionality of Proposition 14, as it was listed on the ballot.

The taxpayers group responded with a recall drive against the council.

Ultimately, the council and taxpayers association reached a compromise that retained the tax cap but dropped the 6-percent ceiling on property-valuation increases.

Luther Jones, who was mayor at the time, said the Proposition 14 controversy was tearing the community apart. A compromise was the only way to mitigate the damage, Jones said.

Jones recalled that Hunt was instrumental in the compromise agreement that the taxpayers and city officials signed late one Sunday evening after a weekend of negotiations.

"He was a worthy opponent, always dedicated to his opinions," Jones said. "We disagreed on many issues, but we always got along. I remember the night we signed the compromise agreement, Tom had to borrow my glasses because he had left his at home."

After leading the tax revolt, Hunt lost bids for mayor on the Taxpayers Party ticket in 1981 and for an at-large council seat in 1983.

Hunt won a seat on the council in 1989, when he defeated two-term District 4 incumbent Linda Strong. Hunt lost a re-election bid in 1991 to Dr. David McNichols.

A common theme ran through all of his campaigns - cut spending at City Hall and reduce the tax burden on residents.

"He worked tirelessly for everything he believed in," O'Brien said.

"He kept his word as a politician, unlike most politicians of today."

As an example, O'Brien said, Hunt in 1986 ran as a Republican candidate for Nueces County treasurer on a platform that he would abolish the office.

Hunt maintained that the office should be abolished because its function could be assumed by the county auditor at a $140,000 savings a year.

Hunt won, and two years later the office was closed.

"I didn't always agree with Tom, but when he abolished the county treasurer's office, he did the right thing," said City Councilman Jack Best. "Even though we disagreed a lot, I always respected him for sticking by what he believed in."

Hunt's last bid for elected office was two years ago, when he was the Republican candidate for Nueces County judge.

His opponent was Democrat Richard Borchard, a former county commissioner, who won in a tight race.

Hunt pushed for more consolidation of city and county services and more control of county spending.

Borchard said Thursday that Hunt campaigned exactly as everyone had expected, by bluntly asserting his stance on issues.

"Tom Hunt is an individual who has always been outspoken," Borchard said.

"In the campaign, he was very straightforward about his beliefs. For the most part, I disagreed with him. But I always respected him."
